THE WORKER MUST BE WELL

In these days of sharp competition everyone who works should be keyed up to the highest pitch of efficiency. The rewards of business life go to the clearest thinkers, to the men and women who know and do things better than other people. But who can do his best work when the health is impaired, when the appetite fails to demand the food necessary to sustain the body, when strength is lacking and ambition gone? Surely the part of wisdom is to begin at once to build up the body to its normal condition, and this may be done more certainly by the use of

than any other medicine. It checks hacking coughs, sharpens the appetite, aids digestion, enriches the blood, restores flesh to the emaciated, and renews health and vigor. It is so agreeable to the taste that its regular use is a pleasure. Get it at your chemist's and be sure you get STEARNS'—the genuine.

AMERICAN NAVY IS NO "BLUFF"

Admiral Dewey Proud of It, But Wants a Subsidy to Help Out.

WASHINGTON, October 7.—Defending, with characteristic vigor, the American Navy, Admiral Dewey today asserted that not only is our Navy not a "bluff," but that he is confident that it would give a good account of itself should war ever come.

The admiral's remarks were called forth by a statement attributed to former Representative Landis of Indiana, who, in a recent speech at Cincinnati, Ohio, on advocating ship subsidy, is reported to have said that "those Americans who are informed considered our navy a 'bluff'."

Declaring that he saw no war clouds gathering on the horizon, Admiral Dewey discussed several phases of the Navy. He expressed himself as heartily in favor of ship subsidy legislation and made a strong plea for the continued upbuilding of the Navy. Referring to the remark attributed to Landis, Admiral Dewey said of course what Mr. Landis meant was that the Navy would be comparatively useless in time of war without necessary auxiliaries drawn from the merchant marine.

"He," continued Admiral Dewey, "wants a subsidy for our ships of commerce and so do I."

The admiral expressed the belief that ship subsidy legislation could be secured were it not for the use of the word "subsidy," which, he said, many people did not like because they thought it meant to give something for nothing.

"But the American Navy is not quite so helpless as one might imagine from Mr. Landis' remarks," said the Admiral. "We have fifteen colliers and several transports already in the service. Of course, these would not be enough in time of war and I hope that we will continue to add to that number. If we were to have a war we could purchase as many ships as we might need. We did so in the Spanish war. It would, of course, be a great deal better if we had them already."

The admiral declared that the United States needed a merchant marine not only for the value it might possess as furnishing auxiliaries to the Navy, but to carry the American flag to the markets of the world.

"But," he said, "there will be no war. And so long as we go ahead steadily and moderately in adding to our Navy, replacing the older ships with the most modern type, thus keeping our Navy abreast of the world, no one will ever be able to say, like Mr. Landis, that other nations do not regard the American Navy seriously."

PAKE PIONEERS WILL NOT FACE CAMERA

Portola Committee Will Miss One Group from Parade.

SAN FRANCISCO, October 8.—Fear of a camera on the part of three aged Chinese deprived the Portola festival committee of a unique and one of the most interesting features of the great Portola parade. The three Chinese laid the first rails that were ever laid in California, and, through the efforts of Look Tin Eli, a prominent merchant of Chinatown, had consented to participate in the parade.

He communicated with the festival committee and arrangements for a float descriptive of their epochal performance had been completed. The Chinese, through intermediaries, agreed to occupy the float, and Look Tin Eli let contracts for its construction on an elaborate scale.

They learned, however, that a photograph was to be taken of them by the publicity department of the Portola festival, and quietly disappeared. Neither Look Tin Eli nor other residents of Chinatown who were interested had been able to find a trace of them since they discovered that a frightful camera was to be pointed at them.

The feature accordingly has been
